

How cloud ERP enables business resilience – according to IDC

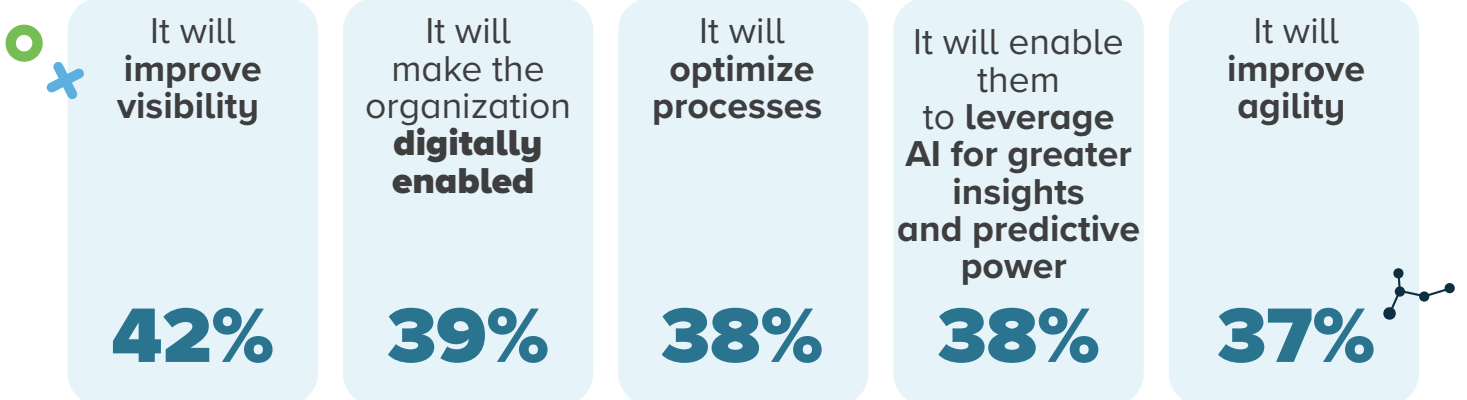

A new IDC report highlights the benefits of cloud ERP to organizations looking to improve their resilience and agility – from enabling remote working and employee agility to providing you with the tools and flexibility you need to tackle disruption.

According to IDC, the benefits of cloud ERP include:

- ✔ Enabling employees to work from anywhere at any time
- ✔ Easy management of large datasets
- ✔ Easy collaboration not just within the enterprise, but across customers, suppliers and global supply chains
- ✔ Greater agility thanks to access to real time-data, giving everyone more time to think, understand, plan, and innovate
- ✔ Integrated and scalable, connecting quickly and easily to other systems and grow and retract based on business requirements
- ✔ Globally compliant with segregation of duties in accounting, materials management, and supply chain track-and-trace

Organizations are looking to cloud ERP systems to enable business resilience. When asked how a cloud ERP will impact their business outcomes, respondents said:

We can't be resilient without the right technology. We rely on our ERP system to keep us resilient.
